

MONDAY EVENING, JUNE 3, 1901.

Today is the 93d anniversary of the birth of Jefferson Davis, which day is set apart in Virginia and many of the other southern States as a partial holiday and is in nearly all of them appropriately observed. As time rolls by the true and patriotic character of Mr. Davis is being better understood, and his devotion to the South and southern people, more fully appreciated. As the first and only president of the "stormrocked nation that fell," an office which came to him unsolicted, he bent his government of their own; but when all these hopes were dashed to pieces and defeat came, after a struggle which for gallantry amazed the world, Mr. Davis, like thousands of others, broken in followed Appomattox, and lamenting the dissipation of the fond hopes he and his illustrious compeers had contended for during four long years against tremendous odds. In the sere and yellow leaf he was noble in defeat, and was gathered to his fathers with the consciousness of having performed his duty honestly and faithfully during many years of public service both as soldier and statesman. Today he is recognized as the ablest head the War department ever had and his example of love of State and of southern institutions may well be followed by

AT A MEETING of the Chicago Protective League, which formerly was the Jewish Peddlers' Union, in Chicago, yesterday an appeal for justice was made for the entire Jewish race, both rich and poor. It was pointed out by many speakers that while the poor and ignorant were assaulted on Chicago streets, the wealthy and educated were reviled and insulted on frequent occasions. It was declared that, regardless of the persecution of the Jews in Russia, they were safer from assault and insult in that country than they are on the streets of Chicago and the charge was made that the laws of Russia are better enforced than are the laws of the city of Chicago. Severe criticism was directed toward many individual memdirected toward many individual memdirected toward many individual members of the Chicago police force for their failure to furnish protection to the members of the association. This picture affords a sad commentary upon the "asylum for the oppressed of all nations" which this country has claimed so long to be. Is Jew-balting to be one of the accompaniments of imperialism? It is and long has been in some. In the palmy days of the Caesars we read dings in Washington society will take that Claudius commanded all Jews to place at noon tomorrow when James depart from Rome and now nearly G. TAKING FOR his text the words, "Emperor McKinley," Mr. W. J. Bryan on peror McKinley," Mr. W. J. Bryan on of French lace made over a cream of Saturday night gave out an extended satin foundation. An aigrette of a bride statement bearing on the Supreme Court decision in the insular cases, Mr. Bryan asserts that the Supreme Court has joined hands with the President and Congress in an effort to change our form of government, and he calls on the people to repudiate the verdict. He says: "By a vote of 5 to 4 the Supreme Court has declared President McKinley emperor of Porto Rico, and according to the press dispatches the emperor has gladly and gratefully accepted the title conferred upon him by the highest judicial tribunal of the land" and adds that the decision assails the foundation of the regublic on the ground of expediency, and made Congress greater than the constitution-the creature superior to the creator. Others some time since, knew that the McKinley administration did not let a little thing like the constitution stand in the way of its own sweet will, but relied upon a "higher law" when it wished to gain its point, and Mr. Bryan but makes this fact the plainer. But Mr. Bryan truly says that the questions involved in the court's decisions are wholly political, and must be finally determined by the American people.

GEN. JAMES A. WALKER has announced himself a candidate for the republican nomination for governor of Virginia, but says he will not enter into an aggressive canvass for the nomination. Mrs. McKipley's condition is still alarming, practically hopeless. The bulletin issued by the physicians this morning did not encourage the President very much, and today for the first time, an official who talked to him during the forecoon said that Mr. McKin ley tactly admitted that the worst seem-ed inevitable. After an unusual good night's rest, Mrs. McKinley awoke this morning quite bright and refreshed. At about 9 o'clock, however, she suffered another of her old nervous attacks of semi-consciousness.

TILLMAN AND MCSWEENEY. Senator Tillman has written an open letter to Governor McSweeney, of South Carolina, declining to withdraw his resignation and denying the Governor's right to send back the resignations to him and Senator McLaurin. He charges that Gov. McSweeney transcended his authority in sending the resignations back to the Senators. He defended his action and resigned his seat and claims to represent the people of South Caro-lina and voice their wishes, saying the people generally demand loyal representation at Washington. In his letter he says: "Our race has ever thought war preferable to dishonor and unless ; am very much deceived a large majority of the people of South Corolina would be glad of an opportunity to punish treather. * The result of the Gaffney meeting has brought Senator McLauric within reach of his constituents. Your excellency's action gives him a loophole of escape, and the censure or blame must rest where it belongs. There is nothing personal in my attitude to-ward Senator McLaurin. Holding this view, I decline for the present to with draw my resignation."

The rapidity with which Senator Mc

Laurin accepted the return of his resignation as Senator has caused considerable comment. It is regarded as an evidence that Mr. McLaurin fears the result of a contest with Mr. Till-man, and was only too glad to find that prior to the meeting of Congress Sens-tor McLaurin will resign and request Gov. McSweeney to appoint his successor. Should the Senator do this he would expect the governor to appoint a man, representing the same political views as Senator Tillman, and the Sena-
